

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910786346503321
Autore	Hill Paul T (Paul Thomas), <1943->
Titolo	Learning as we go [[electronic resource] ] : why school choice is worth the wait // Paul T. Hill
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Stanford, Calif., : Education Next, 2010
ISBN	0-8179-1013-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (153 p.)
Disciplina	371.010973 371/.01/0973
Soggetti	School choice - United States School improvement programs - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"The Hoover Institution's Koret Task Force on K-12 Education."
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Front Cover; Book Title; Copyright; Contents; Preface; 1. Introduction; 2. The Slow but Steady Progress of Pro-Choice Politics; 3. Too Little Money Moves with Students; 4. Quality New Schools Are Rare, Hard to Start; 5. Instructional Innovation is Slow; 6. Influence on the Educational Labor Force is Slight; 7. Bad Schools Don't Always Close; 8. Choice Can Move More Rapidly; About the Author; About the Koret Task Force on K-12 Education; Index
Sommario/riassunto	Paul T. Hill examines the real-world factors that can complicate, delay, and in some instances interfere with the positive cause-and-effect relationships identified by the theories behind school choice. He explains why schools of choice haven't yet achieved a broader appeal and suggests more realistic expectations about timing and a more complete understanding of what must be done to make choice work.