

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910786515303321
Autore	Meade Benjamin <1981->
Titolo	Moral communities and jailhouse religion : religiosity and prison misconduct // Benjamin Meade
Pubbl/distr/stampa	El Paso, Texas : , : LFB Scholarly Publishing LLC, , 2014 ©2014
ISBN	1-59332-780-3
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (254 p.)
Collana	Criminal Justice
Disciplina	365/.6430973
Soggetti	Prisoners - Religious life - United States Prison psychology - United States Criminals - Rehabilitation - United States Prison discipline - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- Religion, religiosity, and deviance -- Inmate misconduct: theory and evidence -- Religion and corrections -- Studying the relationship between religiosity and inmate misconduct -- The effects of religiosity on inmate misconduct -- Conclusion.
Sommario/riassunto	Meade examines the relationship between religiosity and inmate misconduct. The most important aspect of his work is an attempt to resolve unanswered questions in the existing research about the religiosity-inmate misconduct relationship using a national sample of inmates and rigorous statistical techniques. His basic thesis is that the mixed findings across studies may be attributed to issues concerning selection bias and/or contextual differences in religiosity across facilities. The findings from the studies indicate that selection bias could result in an underestimation of the magnitude of