

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910787011803321
Titolo	The Piketty phenomenon : New Zealand perspectives
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Wellington, New Zealand : , : Bridget Williams Books Limited, , 2014 2014
ISBN	1-927277-74-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (105 p.)
Collana	BWB Texts
Disciplina	630
Soggetti	Capital - New Zealand Income distribution - New Zealand Wealth - New Zealand Labor economics - New Zealand
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Introduction; About the Authors; Has Capital in the Twenty-First Century Changed Anything?; Income and wealth distribution; Piketty's approach; The Matthew principle; Policy implications; Piketty's Book is the Real Article; Why the Fuss?; How Economists Might View the Piketty Thesis; The Promise of a New Politics and a New Economics; A new politics; A new economics; Pickings from Piketty; What Piketty Means for Us; Unplugging the Machine; Gender: the missing discussion; The orthodoxy of wide earnings differentials; How radical is Piketty?; Unplugging the system Illuminating Inequality Why We Need to Shift to Capital Taxes; What is the Piketty Model, and Does it Fit New Zealand?; The relationship between labour and capital; Drivers of the policy conclusions; Relevance to New Zealand?; Bringing Wealth into the Spotlight; Wealth in New Zealand; Recalibrating New Zealand; New Zealand Superannuation; Working for Families; Taxation of wealth; The Future of Inequality; 1. The book challenges dominant beliefs about elites and inequality; 2. Inequality became a heated topic after 2008; 3. The book clarifies and legitimises middle-class anxieties post-2008 4. The book remains reassuringly conventionalThe future of inequality; Capital Connections for Education; Endnotes; About BWB Texts

Sommario/riassunto	A diverse range of economists and commentators address the relevance of Thomas Piketty's 'Capital in the Twenty-First Century' for New Zealand.
2. Record Nr.	UNINA9910992779803321
Autore	Kassab Hanna Samir
Titolo	Self-Esteem, Altruism, and Power in Multipolarity // by Hanna Samir Kassab
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Cham : , : Springer Nature Switzerland : , : Imprint : Palgrave Macmillan, , 2025
ISBN	9783031866401 3031866401
Edizione	[1st ed. 2025.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (XI, 98 p. 1 illus.)
Disciplina	327.101
Soggetti	International relations Political psychology International Relations Theory Political Psychology Foreign Policy
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di contenuto	Chapter 1 Introduction -- Chapter 2 The Problem of Ideology in American Foreign Policy.-Chapter 3 The Problem of Status and State Identities in a Multipolar World -- Chapter 4 The Problem of Decisionism and Altruism in American Foreign Policy -- Chapter 5 Conclusions.
Sommario/riassunto	An exciting book that raises important debates in international relations. A must-read. Jonathan Rosen, New Jersey City University jonathanrosenrosen@gmail.com "Is Pax Americana in decline?" This question baffles all observers of international relations and foreign policies, regardless of one's normative preferences for or against the U. S.. In this tastefully written book, the author brilliantly provokes the concept of "self-image" in a constructivist framework that analyzes the changing global order, not only in terms of material capabilities, but also in relation to psychological dynamics among competing powers.

Wenyuan Wu, PhD Independent scholar, author of Chinese Oil

Enterprises in Latin America: Corporate Social Responsibility wenyuan.wu@cferfoundation.org States act not only to survive but to protect and enhance their self-image on the world stage. Dr. Kassab's book bridges political psychology and international relations by explaining how self-esteem shapes state motivations and geopolitical outcomes. Dr.

Muhammet Koçak, National Intelligence Academy, Turkey This book

asserts that state identities drive state motivations shaping state behavior. It describes several state motivations connected to self-esteem and identity: economic wealth, identity dominance through altruism, and controlling political outcomes for other states otherwise understood as decisionism. As a result, self-esteem is at the core of state motivations and seeks to connect the ideational with material reality. Feelings of humiliation define self-esteem and the need to overturn the system may be defined by these negative experiences.

This book then adopts a constructivist framework of analysis and argues that narratives, identities, and whole realities are created through a cogent process of mutual constitution. Hanna Samir Kassab, PhD, is an Assistant Professor at East Carolina University has published "Prestige, Humiliation And Saving Face: National Identity and Great Power Politics" in Contemporary Military Challenges and is the recipient of the Department of Defense's Minerva Grant: "Food Fights: War Narratives and Identity Reproduction in Evolving Conflicts.".
