

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910787233003321
Autore	Depalo Kathryn A.
Titolo	The failure of term limits in Florida // Kathryn A. DePalo ; foreword by David R. Colburn and Susan A. MacManus
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Gainesville, Florida : , : University Press of Florida, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	0-8130-5074-X 0-8130-5510-5
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (263 p.)
Collana	Florida Government and Politics
Disciplina	328.759/073
Soggetti	Term limits (Public office) - Florida Legislators - Term of office - Florida Florida Politics and government
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction: the campaign for term limits -- Change comes to the Florida legislature -- Electoral competition and the new incumbency advantage -- A different breed of Florida legislators -- Political career paths of term limited legislators -- The race for leadership -- Loss of institutional memory and the business of the legislature -- Filling the void: governors, staff, and lobbyists -- Term limits and the future of the Florida legislature.
Sommario/riassunto	Proponents of term limits have constantly argued that term limits of its legislature created more honest and creative legislative body, but DePalo's twenty-year study of term limits in Florida shows this is not the case, finding that term limits create a more powerful governor, legislative staffers, and lobbyists.