

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910788123003321
Autore	Brawley Sean <1966->
Titolo	The South Seas : a reception history from Daniel Defoe to Dorothy Lamour // Sean Brawley and Chris Dixon
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, [Maryland] : , : Lexington Books, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	1-4985-1514-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (321 p.)
Disciplina	700/.45895
Soggetti	Oceania In literature Oceania In art Oceania History Oceania In motion pictures
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Introduction; Chapter One: Beginnings; Chapter Two: America's South Seas; Chapter Three: Herman Melville's Pacific Imaginings; Chapter Four: San Francisco, Art, and Robert Louis Stevenson; Chapter Five: Finding New Guinea; Chapter Six: The Colonial Endeavor and Australia's South Seas; Chapter Seven: The Fair, the Stage, and the Song; Chapter Eight: The Great War and the Lost Generation; Chapter Nine: A South Seas Education; Chapter Ten: South Seas Tourism; Chapter Eleven: Hollywood Encounters the South Seas; Chapter Twelve: Cinematic Escapes Chapter Thirteen: HMAV Bounty and the Great Depression Chapter Fourteen: Pardon My Sarong; Conclusion; Bibliography; Index; About the Authors
Sommario/riassunto	The South Seas is an innovative work of cultural history, tracing the ways in which the idea of "the South Seas" has been understood and transmitted through Western culture since the eighteenth century.