

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910789578903321
Titolo	Louisiana : crossroads of the Atlantic world // edited by Cecile Vidal
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Philadelphia : , : University of Pennsylvania Press, , [2014] ©2014
ISBN	0-8122-0873-0
Edizione	[First edition.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (286 p.)
Collana	Early American Studies
Altri autori (Persone)	VidalCecile
Disciplina	976.3
Soggetti	African Americans - Louisiana - History Enslaved persons - Louisiana Atlantic Ocean Region History 19th century Atlantic Ocean Region History 18th century Louisiana Social life and customs Louisiana Ethnic relations Louisiana History 1803-1865 Louisiana History To 1803
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographies and index.
Nota di contenuto	Front matter -- Contents -- Introduction. Louisiana in Atlantic Perspective -- Chapter 1. "To Establish One Law and Definite Rules": Race, Religion, and the Transatlantic Origins of the Louisiana Code Noir -- Chapter 2. Making a Career out of the Atlantic: Louisiana's Plume -- Chapter 3. Spanish Louisiana in Atlantic Contexts: Nexus of Imperial Transactions and International Relations -- Chapter 4. Slaves and Poor Whites' Informal Economies in an Atlantic Context -- Chapter 5. "Un Nègre nommé [sic] Lubin ne connaissant pas Sa Nation": The Small World of Louisiana Slavery -- Chapter 6. Caribbean Louisiana: Church, Métissage, and the Language of Race in the Mississippi Colony during the French Period -- Chapter 7. Private Lives and Public Orders: Regulating Sex, Marriage, and Legitimacy in Spanish Colonial Louisiana -- Chapter 8. Atlantic Alliances: Marriage among People of African Descent in New Orleans -- Conclusion. Beyond Borders: Revising Atlantic History -- Notes -- Contributors -- Index --

Acknowledgments

---

Sommario/riassunto

Located at the junction of North America and the Caribbean, the vast territory of colonial Louisiana provides a paradigmatic case study for an Atlantic studies approach. One of the largest North American colonies and one of the last to be founded, Louisiana was governed by a succession of sovereignties, with parts ruled at various times by France, Spain, Britain, and finally the United States. But just as these shifting imperial connections shaped the territory's culture, Louisiana's peculiar geography and history also yielded a distinctive colonization pattern that reflected a synthesis of continent and island societies. Louisiana: Crossroads of the Atlantic World offers an exceptional collaboration among American, Canadian, and European historians who explore colonial and antebellum Louisiana's relations with the rest of the Atlantic world. Studying the legacy of each period of Louisiana history over the longue durée, the essays create a larger picture of the ways early settlements influenced Louisiana society and how the changes in sovereignty and other circulations gave rise to a multiethnic society. Contributors examine the workings of empire through the examples of slave laws, administrative careers or on-the-ground political negotiations, cultural exchanges among landowners, slave holders, and slaves, and the construction of race through sexuality, marriage, and household formation. As a whole, the volume makes the compelling argument that one cannot write Louisiana history without adopting an Atlantic perspective, or Atlantic history without referring to Louisiana. Contributors: Guillaume Aubert, Emily Clark, Alexandre Dubé, Sylvia R. Frey, Sylvia L. Hilton, Jean-Pierre Le Glaunec, Cécile Vidal, Sophie White, Mary Williams.

---