

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910456286403321
Autore	Redden Candace
Titolo	Health care, entitlement, and citizenship // Candace Johnson Redden
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Toronto, [Ontario] ; ; Buffalo, [New York] ; ; London, [England] : , : University of Toronto Press, , 2002 ©2002
ISBN	1-281-99610-6 9786611996109 1-4426-7566-7
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (184 p.)
Collana	IPAC Series in Public Management and Governance
Disciplina	362.1/0971
Soggetti	Right to health - Canada Medical policy - Canada Citizenship - Canada Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Frontmatter -- Contents -- ACKNOWLEDGMENTS -- 1. Introduction -- 2. Health Care Entitlement and Citizenship Development -- 3. The Evolution of Social Rights in Canada -- 4. The Right to Health Care -- 5. Sources of Stasis: Budgeting, Perceptions of Privatization, and the Politics of Federalism -- 6. Medicine, Health, and Inequality -- 7. Citizenship, Entitlement, Community: Evaluating Community Governance Structures -- 8. Conclusion: Health Care and Universality - Looking Ahead -- NOTES -- REFERENCES -- INDEX
Sommario/riassunto	Access to universal health care in Canada has become a symbol of national identity and, as such, has also become a highly contentious and politically charged question in the field of public policy. The extent of the passion and disagreement that health care issues provoke is evident in the simple fact that although Canada has undergone dramatic changes in citizenship development since the early 1980s, the health care system has changed very little. Candace Johnson Redden examines the theoretical dimensions of citizenship and rights in Canada as they intersect with health care politics, and offers possible answers to questions concerning the philosophical and political meanings of the right to health care in advanced industrial societies, the equitable distribution of health care resources in those societies, and the effects of globalization and fractured patterns of citizenship on discussions of entitlement, universal human rights, and bioethics. Redden asserts that this new change in citizenship development will require a health care system that is capable of recognizing the different citizenships across Canada, flexible enough to accommodate many different citizenship claims, and consequently able to facilitate interaction between communities and governments. This interdisciplinary study examines epidemiological, technological, and political patterns, and will appeal to anyone interested in Canadian politics, policy, citizenship and health care.

2. Record Nr.	UNINA9910790426703321
Autore	Zimbalist Andrew S
Titolo	Circling the bases [[electronic resource] ] : essays on the challenges and prospects of the sports industry / / Andrew Zimbalist
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Philadelphia, : Temple University Press, 2010
ISBN	1-4399-0283-6 1-4399-0284-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (235 p.)
Disciplina	338.4/77960973
Soggetti	Professional sports - Economic aspects Sports - Economic aspects Sports - Finance Sports administration
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Preface; 1. Introduction: Perspectives on the Sports Industry Toward the Second Decade of the Twenty-First Century; 2. Dollar Dilemmas during the Downturn: A Financial Crossroads for College Sports; 3. The BCS, Antitrust, and Public Policy; 4. Gender Equity in

Intercollegiate Athletics: Economic Considerations and Possible Fixes; 5. Reflections on Salary Shares and Salary Caps; 6. Facility Finance: Measurement, Trends, and Analysis; 7. Going for Gold: The Financing and Economic Impact of the Olympic Games
8. Performance-Enhancing Drugs and Antidoping Policy in Major League Baseball: Experience, Incentives, and ChallengesNotes; Index

---

Sommario/riassunto

In Circling the Bases, leading sports economist Andrew Zimbalist continues his discussion and analysis of the major issues and challenges confronting the sports industry in the second decade of the 21st century. Presenting a general overview of the sports business at both the college and professional levels, this volume places concerns such as the antitrust status of sports leagues, the stalled progress of gender equity in college sports, and the control of Performance Enhancing Drugs in historical context. Zimbalist also provides a deeper understanding of how sports ha

---