| Sommario/riassunto | A global, interdisciplinary consideration of the relationship betweenwar and women's lives, works, economic situations, religiousaffiliations and practices in the early modern period, this volumegathers together scholars from literary studies, history, religiousstudies, and musicology. The juxtapositions, for example, of theimpact of religious and economic strife emerging from the violencebetween European Catholics and Protestants, the civility in Grenadaenhanced by Islamic religious codes, and the negotiations betweenIslamic and Catholic Malaysians, provide specific, |
