

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910795348903321
Titolo	The scholarly communications cookbook // edited by Brianna Buljung and Emily Bongiovanni
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Chicago : , : Association of College and Research Libraries, , 2021 ©2021
ISBN	0-8389-3848-5
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (358 pages) : illustrations (chiefly colour), facsimiles
Disciplina	021.6/5
Soggetti	Communication in library science Communication in learning and scholarship
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Section I: Taking your program to the next level -- Section II: Open educational resources -- Section III: Publishing models and open access -- Section IV: Tools, trends, and best practices for modern researchers.
Sommario/riassunto	"In response to new forms of research output and mandates for open data and science, scholarly communications and related work on research data management, copyright, and open access have become important services for academic librarians--including instruction and liaison librarians--to offer faculty and students. Academic libraries have become increasingly vital throughout the entire research process. The Scholarly Communications Cookbook features 84 recipes that can help you establish programs, teach concepts, conduct outreach, and use scholarly communications technologies in your library. The book is divided into 4 thorough sections: 1. Taking Your Program to the Next Level2. Open Educational Resources3. Publishing Models and Open Access4. Tools, Trends, and Best Practices for Modern ResearchersRecipes can be used by those new to scholarly communications, early-career librarians, and more experienced professionals looking for fresh ideas for their institution. Each recipe includes outcomes for implementing the project, and many also include outcomes for end-users like workshop attendees. Chefs have also aligned recipes to standards and frameworks, including the ACRL

Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education, the ACRL
Scholarly Communications Toolkit, and NASIG's Core Competencies for Scholarly Communication Librarians." --
