

|                         |   |
|-------------------------|---|
| 1. Record Nr.           | UNINA9910795607003321   |
| Autore                  | Bielski Mark F  |
| Titolo                  | A Mortal Blow to the Confederacy : The Fall of New Orleans 1862   |
| Pubbl/distr/stampa      | Havertown : , : Savas Beatie, , 2021©2021   |
| ISBN                    | 1-61121-490-4   |
| Edizione                | [1st ed.]   |
| Descrizione fisica      | 1 online resource (193 pages)   |
| Collana                 | Emerging Civil War  |
| Disciplina              | 973.731   |
| Soggetti                | New Orleans (La.) History Capture, 1862   |
| Lingua di pubblicazione | Inglese   |
| Formato                 | Materiale a stampa  |
| Livello bibliografico   | Monografia  |
| Nota di contenuto       | Cover -- Book Title -- Copyright -- Dedication -- Contents -- Acknowledgments -- Foreword by Gerald J. Prokopowicz -- Prologue: Imagine -- Chapter One: King Cotton -- Chapter Two: New Orleans Prepares -- Chapter Three: First Combat -- Chapter Four: General Lovell -- Chapter Five: Union Preparations -- Chapter Six: The Forts and Outer Defenses -- Chapter Seven: Ship Island -- Chapter Eight: Farragut's Mission -- Chapter Nine: The New Year 1862 -- Chapter Ten: Inside the Forts -- Chapter Eleven: The Union Fleet Moves Upriver -- Chapter Twelve: Easter Week in New Orleans -- Chapter Thirteen: A Capitulation and a Mutiny -- Chapter Fourteen: The Occupation of New Orleans -- Epilogue -- Appendix A: Louisiana History -- Appendix B: Beauvoir -- Appendix C: Confederate Memorial Hall -- Appendix D: Mrs. Gladys LeBreton on the Passing of Jefferson Davis -- Organization of Union and Confederate Fleets/Forces -- Suggested Reading -- About the Author. |
| Sommario/riassunto      | "Abraham Lincoln knew if the Union could cut off shipping to and from New Orleans, the largest exporting port in the world, and control the Mississippi River, it would be a mortal blow to the Confederate economy. Union military leaders devised a secret plan to attack the city from the Gulf of Mexico with a formidable naval flotilla under one commander, David G. Farragut, a native New Orleanian"--   |