

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910795929503321
Autore	Weiss-Wendt Anton <1973->
Titolo	The Soviet Union and the gutting of the UN Genocide Convention / / Anton Weiss-Wendt
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Madison, Wisconsin : , : The University of Wisconsin Press, , 2017 ©2017
ISBN	0-299-31293-3
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (xii, 388 pages)
Collana	Critical Human Rights
Disciplina	345/.0251
Soggetti	Genocide intervention - Political aspects Soviet Union Foreign relations 1945-1991 Soviet Union Foreign relations United States United States Foreign relations Soviet Union
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Sommario/riassunto	After the staggering horrors of World War II and the Holocaust, the United Nations resolved to prevent and punish the crime of genocide throughout the world. The resulting UN Genocide Convention treaty, however, was drafted, contested, and weakened in the midst of Cold War tensions and ideological struggles between the Soviet Union and the West. Based on extensive archival research, Anton Weiss-Wendt reveals in detail how the political aims of the superpowers rendered the convention a weak instrument for addressing abuses against human rights. The Kremlin viewed the genocide treaty as a political document and feared repercussions. What the Soviets wanted most was to keep the subjugation of Eastern Europe and the vast system of forced labor camps out of the genocide discourse. The American Bar Association and Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, in turn, worried that the Convention contained vague formulations that could be used against the United States, especially in relation to the plight of African Americans. Sidelined in the heated discussions, Weiss-Wendt shows, were humanitarian concerns for preventing future genocides.-- publisher.

