

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910797867703321
Autore	Boyd Lydia
Titolo	Preaching prevention : born-again Christianity and the moral politics of AIDS in Uganda / / Lydia Boyd
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Athens : , : Ohio University Press, , [2015] ©2015
ISBN	0-8214-4532-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (253 p.)
Collana	Perspectives on global health
Disciplina	362.19697/920096761
Soggetti	AIDS (Disease) - Prevention HIV infections - Prevention Christianity - Uganda Christianity - United States Medical policy - Uganda Medical policy - United States Sexual abstinence - Uganda Sexual abstinence - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	American compassion and the politics of AIDS prevention in Uganda -- AIDS at home : urbanization, religious change, and the politics of the household in twentieth- and twenty-first-century Uganda -- "Abstinence is for me, how about you?" : the meaning and morality of sex -- Abstinence and the healthy body : spiritual frameworks for health and -- Healing, or "the right way to live long" -- Faithfulness : urban sexuality and the moral dilemmas of love -- Freedom and the accountable subject : Uganda's anti-homosexuality bill -- Epilogue : beyond the accountable subject.
Sommario/riassunto	Preaching Prevention examines the controversial U.S. President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) initiative to "abstain and be faithful" as a primary prevention strategy in Africa.