

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910798361703321
Titolo	Friends, lovers, co-workers, and community : everything I know about relationships I learned from television / / edited by Kathleen M. Ryan [and three others]
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Maryland : , : Lexington Books, , 2016 2016
ISBN	1-4985-1296-8
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (264 p.)
Collana	Lexington Studies in Communication and Storytelling
Disciplina	302
Soggetti	Interpersonal relations Television broadcasting - Social aspects Television programs - Influence
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Introduction; Section 1: Big Love; Chapter One: All I Want for Christmas is You; Chapter Two: "HBIC"; Chapter Three: "There's an app for that"; Section 2: Modern Family; Chapter Four: "The Man Inside Me"; Chapter Five: Fatherhood, Fidelity, and Friendship; Chapter Six: "The Suitcase" and "The Strategy"; Section 3: Homeland; Chapter Seven: The Primetime Drama and the Centrality of Hegemonic Masculinity in Rape Narratives; Chapter Eight: A Rhetorical Vision of Tolerance; Section 4: Community; Chapter Nine: Television, Sports, and Twitter Chapter Ten: Something to Look Forward ToChapter Eleven: Kickstarting Veronica Mars; Bibliography; Index; About the Contributors and Editors
Sommario/riassunto	Friends, Lovers, Co-Workers, and Community analyzes both how complex, interpersonal relationships were both depicted in and were influenced by television programs in the first decade of the twenty-first century.