

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910798729603321
Autore	Zecevic Nada
Titolo	The Tocco of the Greek realm : nobility, power and migration in Latin Greece (14th-15th centuries) // Nada Zecevic
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Belgrade, Serbia : , : Makart, , 2014 ©2014
ISBN	86-919441-0-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (248 p.)
Disciplina	929.20945
Soggetti	Naples (Kingdom) History Anjou dynasty, 1268-1442 Naples (Kingdom) History Spanish rule, 1442-1707 Byzantine Empire History Palaeologi dynasty, 1259-1448 Byzantine Empire Kings and rulers
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Foreword -- Introduction -- I. From Naples to the Heptanese (until c. 1375) -- II. From the Heptanese to Epiros (c. 1375--c. 1429) -- III. From Epiros to Naples (c. 1429--c. 1500) -- In Conclusion -- Appendix I. Notes on chronology, genealogy and prosopography -- Appendix II. Rulers of the 14th and 15th centuries.
Sommario/riassunto	This book is about the Tocco family, the most prominent kindreds in Latin Greece during the 14th and 15th centuries. Originally from the Italian South, their five generations ruled the Greek regions of the Heptanese, Epiros and Peloponnese. By exploring the elaborate structures of their power, this monograph reveals an intricate nexus of dynamic personal and political relations, as well as larger socio-historical processes that transformed this family from junior nobility of the Angevin Naples into independent elite ruling a region on the crossroads between the Byzantine East and the Latin West. In doing so, this saga of the Tocco nobility, power and migration gives a critical overview of the early-modern and modern scholarship dealing with this family, cross-examining, at the same time, a most extensive pool of primary sources: Latin and Greek narratives, family documents and genealogies until now largely unpublished or little known to the scholarship, legal sources and diplomatic correspondence, commercial books and archeological reports.

---