Sommario/riassunto	Nach diversen Ausrufungen eines Zeitalters des ›Postheroismus‹ scheint antikes Heldentum doppelt irrelevant geworden zu sein: zum einen wegen der zunehmenden Fragwürdigkeit von Heldentum allgemein, zum anderen wegen der historischen Distanz der Antike. Dieser Band zeigt demgegenüber die kontinuierliche Relevanz antiken Heldentums aus rezeptionsgeschichtlicher Perspektive, indem er sich auf die Moderne vom 19. Jahrhundert bis zur Gegenwart konzentriert. Die Beiträge widmen sich der vielfältigen Aufnahme und Adaption antiken Heldentums in literarischen Verarbeitungen von Nachkriegserfahrungen (napoleonische Kriege, deutscher Kolonialismus, Zweiter Weltkrieg), in totalitären politischen Systemen des 20. Jahrhunderts, in der schulischen Vermittlung, in gesellschaftspolitischen Themen wie race und gender sowie in poetologisch-epistemologischen literarischen Entwürfen.

Sommario/riassunto

This book examines the ways in which North American Indigenous identity has been (re)imagined, represented, and negotiated in German, Croatian, Italian, Polish, and Czech culture. Employing a cross-disciplinary and comparative approach and drawing on a range of media—from literature, comics, and film to photography, painting, and the performative arts—across different historical and cultural backgrounds, it aims to both contribute innovative scholarship on Indigenous studies in Europe and open a new avenue in the field by focusing on Central European settings that have received little or no critical attention to date. The book's novelty also comes from its focus on the latest developments in the field, including the "Ravensburger/Winnetou controversy," which swept across Europe in 2022, echoing the 2017 Canadian debate over Indigenous appropriation and free speech. It seeks to provide a sound reference and lay the groundwork for future scholarship by opening up a conversation on how Indigenous identities have been portrayed in Central European literature and media texts. To this end, it not only addresses generalized expectations about North American Indigenous people underlying (Central) European public discourse and imagination but also questions whether and to what extent some of the ingrained stereotypical views and practices, such as hobbyism, have been challenged in the face of Indigenous resurgence, rapidly changing media and information-sharing realities, and global cultural shifts. The closing interview with Métis playwright, actor, and director Bruce Sinclair underscores one of the book's key goals—to spark an informed cross-cultural dialogue that will reveal the mechanisms of, as well as the contradictions and tensions inherent in, the politics of Indigenous representation in (Central) European cultural industries and encourage (Central) Europeans to confront their own cultural assumptions and attitudes. .
