| Sommario/riassunto | The use of participatory research techniques to provide policy-makers with information about poor people's perspectives on poverty became increasingly common in the 1990's. This book focuses on the use of | participatory research in poverty reduction policies, and presents a series of participants' reflections on recent and ongoing processes. The 1990's witnessed a shift in the application of participatory methodologies, adding to the project planning approaches of the 1980's a new focus on participatory research for policy. Much of this centres on poverty issues. In this volume, contributions from
