

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910805581503321
Autore	McAuley James W
Titolo	Collective Memory and Political Identity in Northern Ireland : Recollections of the Future
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Cham : , : Springer International Publishing AG, , 2024 ©2024
ISBN	9783031476754 3031476751
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (285 pages)
Collana	Memory Politics and Transitional Justice Series
Soggetti	Collective memory Transitional justice
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di contenuto	Intro -- Preface -- Acknowledgements -- Contents -- Abbreviations -- 1 Introduction Collective Remembering and the Power of Commemoration -- Framing the Past in (Northern) Ireland -- Conclusions -- References -- 2 Engaging the Present Through the Past -- Collective Memory and the Fall of a State -- The Pliable Nature of Remembering and Forgetting -- Legacy, Narratives and Collective Memory -- Relevance to Northern Ireland -- Hosting Recall and Memory -- Making Sense of the Social and Political World -- Remembering and the Burden of the Past -- Conclusions -- References -- 3 Identity, Commemoration, Remembering and Forgetting -- Collective Memory and Historical Approaches -- Narratives of Belonging -- Stereotyping Memory -- (Re)Presenting the Past -- Commemoration and Memorialisation -- Using Memory -- Collective Memory and Social Identity -- Memory Gaps and Constructed Amnesia -- Using Collective Memory -- Collective Memory in the Public Arena -- Conclusions -- References -- 4 The Active Use of Narratives in Collective Memory -- (Auto)Biography and Individual Recall -- Memories of the Present -- Memories of the Future -- The Social Context of Recall -- Engaging Past Ghosts -- Memory and Meaning -- Using Collective Memory -- Problematic Collective Memory -- Symbolism and Commemoration -- Making Sense

of the Commemorative Past -- Commemorative Discourses and Narratives -- Living and Lived Memory -- Framing and Transmitting Collective Memory -- The Struggle for Memory Dominance -- (Re)Imagining the Past -- Conclusions -- References -- 5 Imagined Communities and Community Imaginations -- The Boundaries of Community -- Mobilising Memory Through Community -- Mobilising Community Through Memory -- Memory and the Symbolic Community -- Narrative Communities -- Communities of Memory -- Community and the Collective Past -- Conflict Communities.

Collective Memory as a Connector -- Framing and Bonding Communities -- Conclusions -- References -- 6 Localised Narratives and the Construction of Community Myths -- Identity Narratives of Loyalism and Republicanism -- Aspirational Memories -- Recalling and Retelling the Past -- Using Myth and Memory: The Cú Chulainn Saga -- Cú Chulainn in Republican Narratives -- Cú Chulainn in Loyalist Narratives -- Collective Memory and the Cú Chulainn Myth -- Localised Narratives and Memories -- Competing Narratives and Understandings -- Republican Memories and Narratives -- Loyalist Memorial -- The Contest for Memories -- Feeding Macro Narratives -- Republican Collective Memory -- Regrouping Republican Memories -- Orange Narratives and Collective Memory -- Conclusions -- References -- 7 Popular Cultures, Memory Performance and Using Memory -- Performing Memory -- Inscribed Memory -- Public Involvement in Memory -- Popular Memory: Murals and the Past -- Inscribing Popular Memory Through Performance -- Commemoration Practices and Places -- Identity Transmission Through Popular Culture -- The Past in Song and Story -- Formal Education and Collective Memory -- Conclusions -- References -- 8 Transnational Memories and Generational Change -- Globalising Memory -- Emigration and Expanding Memory -- Ownership of Memories Beyond Ireland -- Loyalism and Identity Abroad -- Ireland's Heritage and the Past -- Using Memories Beyond Ireland -- Controversial and Divided Memory -- Remembering the Black and Tans -- Recalling and Making Memories Through Museums -- Agnostic and Official Museums -- Committed Museums -- Living Museums -- Women Commemoration and Memory -- Public Remembrance -- Conclusions -- References -- 9 Legacy, Victimhood and the Possibility of Change -- Who Are the Victims? -- The Morals of Remembering -- Memory, Victimhood and Entitlement. Legacy of Conflict Memory -- Ownership of Memories -- Dealing With the Past -- Drawing a Line Under the Past? -- How Do Generations Remember? -- Reformulating Generational Memory -- What Do Generations Remember? -- Post-Conflict Communities and Memory -- Questioning Narratives -- Conclusions -- References -- 10 Collective Memory, Narrative, Politics and Identity in Northern Ireland: Some Conclusions -- The Roles of Collective Memory and Narrative -- The Legacy of Cultural Memory -- Cultural Memory Wars -- Everyday Collective Memories -- Recalling the Future in Northern Ireland -- References -- Bibliography -- Index.

Sommario/riassunto

This book explores the intersection of collective memory and political identity in Northern Ireland, focusing on how these memories shape contemporary political and social dynamics. The author, James W. McAuley, draws on years of interviews with individuals and political organizations to examine the role of memory in constructing both individual and group identities. The book is part of the Memory Politics and Transitional Justice series, which aims to bridge the fields of memory studies and transitional justice. It is intended for academics, students, and practitioners interested in understanding the influence of historical memory on current political issues.
