

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910807042403321
Titolo	Human goodness : origins, manifestations, and clinical implications // edited by Salman Akhtar
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Maryland : , : Rowman & Littlefield, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	1-4422-4424-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (151 p.)
Collana	Margaret S. Mahler Series
Disciplina	155.2/32
Soggetti	Altruism Kindness Forgiveness Helping behavior
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Chapter One: Human Goodness; Chapter Two: Do Psychoanalysts Know What's Good for Them? If So, Why are They Always Arguing about It? If Not, How Do They (and We) Know What's Good for Us?; Chapter Three: On Human Goodness; Chapter Four: A Therapist's Maternal Altruism; Chapter Five: The Altruistic Omnipotent Mother; Chapter Six: Kindness, Altruism and Forgiveness; Chapter Seven: Some Unconscious Variables at Play in Human Goodness; Chapter Eight: In Favor of Good and Bad Objects; References; Index; Contributors
Sommario/riassunto	Each human heart possesses positive attributes such as altruism, kindness, concern, gratitude, and forgiveness. "Human Goodness" explores the origins of these traits through the use of clinical vignettes to help mental health professionals see their clients in refreshingly new ways.