

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910807179603321
Autore	Licklidge Mary M
Titolo	Grant seeking in higher education [[electronic resource]] : strategies and tools for college faculty // Mary M. Licklidge and the University of Missouri Grant Writer Network ; foreword by David Attis
Pubbl/distr/stampa	San Francisco, : Jossey-Bass, : Grant Writer Network, c2012
ISBN	1-118-39512-3 1-282-10881-6 9786613802163 1-118-39511-5
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (338 p.)
Collana	The Jossey-Bass higher and adult education series
Altri autori (Persone)	AttisDavid
Disciplina	378.1/06
Soggetti	Educational fund raising - United States Education, Higher - United States - Finance Research grants Proposal writing for grants Universities and colleges - Faculty
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	pt. 1. The how-to manual -- pt. 2. Grant-seeking toolkit.
Sommario/riassunto	Grant funding has become increasingly crucial to universities and university faculty, even as government and private funding reductions and increased application pools result in a more and more competitive environment. Securing the funding which is available is not a simple process, and institutional support for faculty who seek grants is uneven, where it exists at all. Faculty members are often left to navigate their own ways through the shifting landscape of the grants maze. When added on top of teaching and service loads, it's no surprise that many faculty members either avoid seeking grant