

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910808235503321
Autore	Schneider Rachel Zimmer
Titolo	Battered women doing time : injustice in the criminal justice system // Rachel Zimmer Schneider
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Boulder, Col : , : FirstForumPress, , 2014
ISBN	1-62637-292-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (150 p.)
Disciplina	364.152
Soggetti	Women murderers - United States Abused women - United States - Psychology Abused women - Legal status, laws, etc - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (pages 143-149) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Strength, survival, and resilience -- Life before prison -- The killing and the aftermath -- Life on the inside -- Clemency : denied -- Clemency : granted -- Deserving or not? -- Making sense of it all.
Sommario/riassunto	When is killing an abusive partner an act of murder, and when is it self-defense? How does our criminal justice system deal with battered women who kill, and to what effect? Rachel Schneider traces the lives of women who sought clemency after being imprisoned for killing their abusers, drawing on a series of intimate interviews to explore the circumstances leading up to the killings, the women's experiences in the courts and in prison, and the diverging paths of those whose sentences were commuted and those who will spend their lives behind bars.