

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910809462503321
Autore	Yu Keping
Titolo	Democracy and the rule of law in contemporary China [[electronic resource] /] / by Yu Keping
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Boston, : Brill, 2010
ISBN	1-282-95240-4 9786612952401 90-04-19031-7
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (311 p.)
Collana	Issues in contemporary Chinese thought and culture, , 1874-0588 ; ; v. 2
Disciplina	320.951
Soggetti	Democracy - China China Politics and government 2002- China Economic conditions 2000-
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	pt. 1. Democracy- theoretical issues -- pt. 2. Democracy and problems of governance -- pt. 3. On the rule of law.
Sommario/riassunto	Democracy and the Rule of Law in China is intended to make available to English-language readers debates among prominent Chinese intellectuals and academics over issues of political, constitutional, and legal reform; modes of governance in urban and rural China; and culture and cultural policy. China's unprecedented economic development following the implementation of the Reform and Opening policy has drawn widespread international attention; yet accompanying political developments have been largely overlooked. A compilation of the works of twelve contemporary Chinese scholars, this book offers unique insights into the wealth of viewpoints and diversity of issues influencing and defining the development of democracy and the rule of law in China. Based on theoretical and practical analyses of China's political development to date, the authors propose specific models for the expansion of democratic mechanisms already present in the current political structure. Exploring topics ranging from autonomous village governance and grassroots elections to constitutional reform and judicial independence, the authors are unified on one point: China's political development must pursue a gradual, distinctly-Chinese course in order to promote social stability, continued economic advancement, and the establishment of a socialist democratic society.
