

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910809557103321
Autore	Eyers Jonathan
Titolo	How to snog a hagfish! : disgusting things in the sea // Jonathan Eyers
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London : , : Adlard Coles, , 2012
ISBN	1-280-11850-4 9786613522795 1-4081-4061-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (97 p.)
Disciplina	591.92
Soggetti	Marine animals
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; Contents; Introduction; 01 Looks Aren't Everything; 02 Disgusting Diets; 03 Disgusting Defences; 04 Disgusting Habits; 05 Monsters of the Deep; 06 Shark Alert!; 07 The Best of the Rest of the Worst; Index
Sommario/riassunto	For most people, seasickness is the most unpleasant thing they experience at sea. However, beneath the surface is a whole other world, and a lot of it could turn all but the strongest stomachs. When attacked, the hagfish (also known as the slime eel) ties itself in a knot that travels the length of its body, squeezing out mucus by the bucketful and making it impossible for a predator to keep hold. To eat, a starfish regurgitates its stomach, digests its food then swallows its stomach back down again. Pearlfish stick close to sea cucumbers, whose bowels they swim into when danger's near. And wi