

| | |
|-------------------------|---|
| 1. Record Nr. | UNINA9910809614803321 |
| Autore | Ehrman Bart D |
| Titolo | Jesus, apocalyptic prophet of the new millennium [[electronic resource] /] / Bart D. Ehrman |
| Pubbl/distr/stampa | Oxford ; ; New York, : Oxford University Press, 1999 |
| ISBN | 0-19-773973-3 0-19-983943-3 1-280-53022-7 0-19-802888-1 1-4294-0467-1 |
| Descrizione fisica | 1 online resource (287 p.) |
| Disciplina | 232.9/08 |
| Soggetti | Millennialism - Palestine - History |
| Lingua di pubblicazione | Inglese |
| Formato | Materiale a stampa |
| Livello bibliografico | Monografia |
| Note generali | Description based upon print version of record. |
| Nota di bibliografia | Includes bibliographical references (p. 255-258) and indexes. |
| Nota di contenuto | contents; preface; one: the end of history as we know it; two: who was jesus? why it's so hard to know; three: how did the gospels get to be this way?; four: looking about a bit: non-christian sources for the historical jesus; five: looking about a bit more: other Christian sources for the historical jesus; six: moving on to the past: how can we reconstruct the life of jesus?; seven: finding a fit: jesus in context; eight: jesus the apocalyptic prophet; nine: the apocalyptic teachings of jesus; ten: a place for everything: jesus' other teachings in their apocalyptic context eleven: not in word only: the associates, deeds, and controversies of jesus in apocalyptic context twelve: the last days of jesus; thirteen: from apocalyptic prophet to lord of all: the afterlife of jesus; fourteen: jesus as the prophet of the new millennium: then and now; notes; bibliography; index of subjects; index of passages; index of modern authors |
| Sommario/riassunto | This controversial book argues that Jesus, like many of his later followers, proclaimed that God was soon to intervene in human affairs and bring all of history to a screeching halt. The author shows why Jesus should be understood as an apocalyptic prophet who anticipated | the destruction of evil, the end of the age, and beginning of a new world.
