

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910809684203321
Autore	Saunders Gail
Titolo	Race and class in the colonial Bahamas : 1880-1960 // Gail Saunders ; foreword by Bridget Brereton
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Gainesville, Florida : , : University Press of Florida, , 2016 ©2016
ISBN	0-8130-5155-X 0-8130-5578-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (401 p.)
Disciplina	305.80097296
Soggetti	Social classes - Bahamas - History Bahamas Race relations History Bahamas Social conditions History Bahamas History
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	The Bahamas in the post-emancipation period -- Bahamian society in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries: class, race, and ethnicity -- Gradual changes in the Bahamas, 1880-1914 -- World War I and prohibition -- The 1930s and the depression: tourism and restlessness -- World War II and the 1942 Nassau riot -- The formative years, 1950-1958: political organization, race, and protest -- The 1958 general strike and its aftermath -- Confronting a divided society.
Sommario/riassunto	Saunders shows that, although the Bahamas had class tensions in common with other British colonial lands, Bahamian racial tensions were not necessarily parallel to those across the West Indies so much as they mirrored those occurring in the U.S., with power and/or money consolidated in the hands of the white minority. She examines the nature of the Bahamian race and class relations and interactions between dominant groups--from whites, to people who identified as creole or mixed race, to liberated Africans--between the 1880s and the early 1960s.