

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910810011103321
Autore	Stollman Jennifer A
Titolo	Daughters of Israel, daughters of the south [[electronic resource]] : southern Jewish women and identity in the antebellum and Civil War South // Jennifer A. Stollman
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Boston, : Academic Studies Press, 2013
ISBN	1-61811-207-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (260 p.)
Collana	Out of series Daughters of Israel, daughters of the South
Disciplina	305.488
Soggetti	Jews - Southern States - History Southern States Ethnic relations
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Frontmatter -- Contents -- Acknowledgments -- Introduction. Partially Hidden, Muffled, and Caricatured -- Chapter One. "In the Eye of the Storm" -- Chapter Two. A Race Between Education and Catastrophe -- Chapter Three. "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword" -- Chapter Four. "Relationships in Bondage" -- Chapter Five. "An Ardent Attachment to my Birth" -- Conclusion -- Bibliography -- Index
Sommario/riassunto	Daughters of Israel, Daughters of the South examines southern Jewish womanhood during the Antebellum and Civil War eras. In an overwhelmingly Protestant South, Jewish women created and maintained unique American Jewish identities through their efforts in education, writing, religious observance, paid and unpaid labor, and relationships with Christian whites and enslaved African-Americans. This book examines how southern Jewish women fought proselytization through their religious convictions, challenged anti-Semitism using public and private writing, maintained a distinctive southern Judaism, promoted their own status and legitimacy as southerners, and worked diligently as Confederate ambassadors.