

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910810019703321
Autore	Polka Brayton
Titolo	Rethinking philosophy in light of the Bible : from Kant to Schopenhauer // Brayton Polka
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Maryland : , : Lexington Books, , 2014 ©2014
ISBN	1-4985-0579-1 0-7391-9318-X
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (187 p.)
Collana	Graven Images
Disciplina	190
Soggetti	Philosophy and religion
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	The Kantian revolution in metaphysics -- Hegel and the myth of the fall -- Kierkegaard on coming into historical existence as the critique of Christendom -- What is philosophy? Feuerbach and Schopenhauer on the essence of Christianity.
Sommario/riassunto	This book analyzes the ideas central to the philosophy of Kant, Hegel, and Kierkegaard to show that they are biblical in origin, both ontologically and historically. Polka argues that Schopenhauer has an altogether false conception of the fundamental ideas of the Bible and of Christianity, which leaves his philosophy irredeemably contradictory.