

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910810440303321
Autore	Ehtisham S. Akhtar <1939->
Titolo	A medical doctor examines life on three continents [[electronic resource]] : a Pakistani view // S. Akhtar Ehtisham
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : Algora Pub., c2008
ISBN	9786611793838 1-281-79383-3 0-87586-635-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (214 p.)
Disciplina	909.82092 B
Soggetti	Pakistani Americans Physicians Political activists Medical care - Pakistan Medical care - Great Britain Medical care - United States Pakistan Social conditions Great Britain Social conditions 1945- United States Social conditions 1945-
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Preface; Introduction: A South-Asian Life of Our Times; Chapter 1. Society in Pre-Partition India; Chapter 2. The 1857 Uprising and Early Independence Movement; Chapter 3. Negotiations for Transfer of Power and Partition; Chapter 4. Early Post-Partition: Divergent Paths; Chapter 5. Education and Socio-Economic Conditions in Pakistan-1951 to 1957; Chapter 6. Nehru and Ayub Years; Chapter 7. Medical Education and Surgical Training: 1957-1972; Chapter 8. Student Movement in Pakistan; Chapter 9. Decline and Fall of Ayub; Chapter 10. Health Service and Society in North America, 1973 -2007 Chapter 11. The Rise of Fundamentalism Chapter 12. Hospital Management; Chapter 13. BB-NS Musical Chairs; Chapter 14. America

the Beautiful; Chapter 15. UK 2001-2002; Chapter 16. Colonization to Globalization; Bibliography; Glossary

Sommario/riassunto

A medical doctor and political activist traces his life from India at partition to graduate work and practice in the UK and America, comparing health standards, economic well-being, race relations, and the political atmosphere on three continents during the socially-conscious 1960's and later under bare-knuckle capitalism. He includes a brief synopsis of Pakistan's tumultuous history, including the role played by superpowers with an interest in the region.
