

| | |
|-------------------------|--|
| 1. Record Nr. | UNINA9910811434403321 |
| Autore | Gaskew Tony |
| Titolo | Rethinking prison reentry : transforming humiliation into humility // Tony Gaskew |
| Pubbl/distr/stampa | Lanham, Maryland ; ; London, England : , : Lexington Books, , 2014 ©2014 |
| ISBN | 1-4985-0167-2 0-7391-8313-3 |
| Descrizione fisica | 1 online resource (207 p.) |
| Disciplina | 365/.608996073 |
| Soggetti | African American prisoners African American men - Social conditions Crime - United States - Sociological aspects Criminal - Rehabilitation - United States Discrimination in criminal justice administration - United States |
| Lingua di pubblicazione | Inglese |
| Formato | Materiale a stampa |
| Livello bibliografico | Monografia |
| Note generali | Description based upon print version of record. |
| Nota di bibliografia | Includes bibliographical references and index. |
| Nota di contenuto | Contents; List of Figures; List of Tables; Preface; Acknowledgments; Introduction; Chapter One: The Killing Fields of Chicago; Chapter Two: Uncovering Black Cultural Privilege; Chapter Three: The Great White Shark; Chapter Four: Jim Crow Jr.; Chapter Five: Are You a 30 Percenter or a 70 Percenter?; References; Index; About the Author |
| Sommario/riassunto | Gaskew presents a prison-based education designed to address a prevalent racial politics of shaming, self-segregation, and transgenerational learned-helplessness. He explores the Black counter-culture of crime and tasks incarcerated Black men to draw upon the strength of their cultural privilege to transform from criminal offender into student. |