

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910811590203321
Autore	Gadd David <1975->
Titolo	Losing the race : thinking psychosocially about racially motivated crime // David Gadd and Bill Dixon
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London, : Karnac, c2011
ISBN	0-429-91584-5 0-429-90161-5 0-429-47684-1 1-283-07114-2 9786613071149 1-84940-868-8
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (377 p.)
Collana	Explorations in psycho-social studies series
Altri autori (Persone)	DixonBill
Disciplina	155.8/2 155.82
Soggetti	Psychoanalysis and racism Race - Psychological aspects Race awareness - Great Britain Racism - Great Britain - Psychological aspects Hate crimes - Social aspects - Great Britain
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"Based on a two-year research project, "Context and motive in the perpetration of racially motivated violence and harassment", funded by the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC)"--P. iv of cover.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 233-248) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgements and Permissions; About The Authors; Introduction: Race, racism, and racially motivated offenders; Chapter One: Posing the "why?" question; Chapter Two: Recovering the contradictory racist subject; Chapter Three: Understanding the "racially motivated offender"; Chapter Four: Racially aggravated offenders and the punishment of hate; Chapter Five: The unconscious attractions of far right politics; Chapter Six: Rethinking community cohesion; Chapter Seven: Zahid Mubarek's murderer: the case of Robert Stewart ; Chapter Eight: Racism, respect, and recognition ; Chapter Nine: Conclusion: losing the race; References.

Sommario/riassunto

Based on a two-year research project funded by the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC), this book explores why many of those involved in racially motivated crime seem to be struggling to cope with economic, cultural and emotional losses in their own lives. Drawing on in-depth biographical interviews with perpetrators of racist crimes and focus group discussions with ordinary people living in the same communities, the book explores why it is that some people, and not others, feel inclined to attack immigrants and minority ethnic groups. The relationships between ordinary racism, racial
