

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910811779003321
Autore	Cottle Simon
Titolo	Global crisis reporting : journalism in the global age // Simon Cottle
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Maidenhead, England, : Open University Press New York, : McGraw-Hill, 2009
ISBN	1-281-95304-0 0-335-23673-1
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (215 p.)
Collana	Issues in cultural and media studies
Disciplina	070.4332 303.485
Soggetti	Journalism Communication, International News agencies
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [178]-191) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Front cover; Half title; Series Editor; Tittle; Copyright page; Contents; Acknowledgements; Series Editor's Foreword; Chapter 1 Global crisis? what crisis?; Global crises: eight moments; Chapter 2 Journalism in the global age; International communications and media globalization; News media as emissaries of global dominance; News media as emissaries of the global public sphere; Peripheral visions and professional preoccupations; Peripheral visions; Professional preoccupations and practices; The demise of foreign correspondence?; Emergent new(s) trajectories in the research field Mediating global crisesTheorizing contingency and complexity; Chapter 3 (U N) Natural disasters: the calculus of death and the ritualization of catastrophe; Geopolitics and the calculus of death; The ritualization of catastrophe and the politics of despair; The South Asian tsunami: rituals of solidarity and the 'Cruel Sea'; Hurricane Katrina: disaster myths and the ritualization of dissent; (Un)natural disasters as global focusing events; Chapter 4 Ecology and climate change: from science and sceptic to spectacle and . . .; Environmental reporting: what's known Climate change: science and scepticsClimate change: spectacle and . . .;

Chapter 5 Forced migrations and human rights: antinomies in the mediations ethics of care; News, migrants and collective problematization: three case studies; A different story: journalism and the mediated ethics of care; Human rights on the news agenda; Chapter 6 New wars and the global war on terror: on vicarious, visceral violence; Communicating war: controls and contingencies; Hidden wars, new wars; Information war and the new western way of war; Spectacle and the global war on terror
Chapter 7 The 'cnn effect' and 'compassion fatigue' : researching beyond commonsense The CNN effect: too good to be true?; Compassion fatigue: too bad to be right?; Chapter 8 Humanitarian ngos, news media and the changing relations of communicative power; Humanitarian NGOs in the global age; Aid NGOs in interaction with the news media; The crowded aid field and organizational branding; Packaging media reports and facilitating the field; Regionalizing 'global' humanitarianism; Risk, reputation and mediated scandals; Make Poverty History: campaign dilemmas behind the scenes
New communication technologies: reconfiguring communicative power Chapter 9 Global crisis reporting : conclusion; Researching complexity and contingency; Global crises, nations and public sphere(s); Glossary; References; Index; Back cover

Sommario/riassunto

Climate change and threats to the planet's ecology, the 'global war on terror' and various forms of warfare and humanitarian emergencies and struggles for human rights - these, and other, global crises represent the dark side of our globalizing world. This work examines the media's involvement in some of the most humanly pressing global crises.
