

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910812762903321
Autore	Christie Nancy <1958->
Titolo	Engendering the state : family, work, and welfare in Canada // Nancy Christie
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Toronto, [Ontario] ; ; Buffalo, [New York] ; ; London, [England] : , : University of Toronto Press, , 2000 ©2000
ISBN	1-4426-7447-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (474 p.)
Disciplina	361.610971
Soggetti	Family policy - Canada - History - 20th century Public welfare - Canada - History - 20th century Social security - Canada - History - 20th century Livres numeriques. History e-books. Electronic books. Kanada Canada
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes index.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	The evangelical morphology of the state and redefinition of the patriarchal family -- 'While the breadwinners are at war': gender and social policy, 1914-1918 -- 'A peaceful evolution of industrial citizenship': maternalism, national efficiency, and the movement for Mothers' allowances -- Mother's allowances and the regulation of the family economy -- Dismantling the Maternalist state: labour, social work, and Social Catholicism debate family policy, 1926-1930 -- 'Not only a living wage, but a family wage': the Great Depression and the subversion of the Maternalist state -- Reconstructing families: family allowances and the politics of postwar abundance.
Sommario/riassunto	"The author's explanation of gender's role in the conception of modern Canadian welfare policy takes current scholarship into novel territory. Her analyses of the perspectives of maternal feminists, clergymen, organized labour, businessmen, university social scientists, welfare administrators, social workers, and government policy makers are fascinating to read and contribute greatly to our understanding of the current debates in welfare policy making."--Jacket
