Record Nr. UNINA9910812903703321 Autore Levesque Roger J. R Titolo Dangerous adolescents, model adolescents: shaping the role and promise of education / / Roger J.R. Levesque New York, : Kluwer Academic/Plenum, c2002 Pubbl/distr/stampa ISBN 1-280-20027-8 9786610200276 0-306-47540-5 Edizione [1st ed. 2002.] Descrizione fisica 1 online resource (273 p.) Perspectives in law & psychology;; v. 13 Collana Disciplina 370.11/5 Soggetti Education, Secondary - Social aspects - United States Teenagers - Education - Social aspects - United States Problem children - Education - Social aspects - United States Educational law and legislation - United States Lingua di pubblicazione Inglese Formato Materiale a stampa Livello bibliografico Monografia Description based upon print version of record. Note generali Nota di bibliografia Includes bibliographical references (p. 229-251) and index. Nota di contenuto Developing Law to Educate Adolescents -- Education's Role in Fostering Adolescents -- Law and the Development of Public Education -- Challenges Facing Adolescents' Education -- Dangerous Adolescents -- Model Adolescents -- Thriving Adolescents --Fostering Adolescents -- Ensuring the Promise of Education. Sommario/riassunto Teachers make a difference. As someone who grew up in one of the po- est and rural areas of a poor state and ended up attending elite graduate and professional schools, I have much to credit my public school teachers. My teachers sure struggled much to teach an amazingly wide variety of students from different backgrounds, abilities, and hopes. Given that re- ity, which undoubtedly repeats itself across the United States and globe, one would think that I should be quite hesitant to criticize a system that produces countless grateful students and productive citizens. I agree. The pages that follow surely can be perceived as yet another attack on already much maligned schools that do produce impressive outcomes despite their limited resources, increased obligations, and the sustained barrage of attacks from competing interest groups. Some may even view the text as an affront to the inalienable rights of parents to raise their children as they see fit. Others surely could understand the analysis as another assault on our decentralized legal and school systems that should retain the right to balance the needs of communities, parents, schools, and students. I clearly did not intend, and do not see the ultimate result, as yet another diatribe on the manner teachers, parents and communities treat students.