

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910813364003321
Titolo	Networks, hacking, and media CITA MS@30 : now and then and tomorrow // edited by Barry Wellman, Laura Robinson, Casey Brienza, Wenhong Chen and Shelia R. Cotten
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London, England : , : Emerald Publishing Limited, , [2019] ©2019
ISBN	1-78769-667-7 1-78769-665-0
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (192 pages)
Collana	Studies in media and communications, , 2050-2060 ; ; volume 17
Disciplina	303.4833
Soggetti	Information society - History Social Science - Media Studies Communication studies
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes index.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Prelims -- Part I Field analysis: citams past chairs -- Chapter 1 CITAMS @30: learning from the past, plotting a course for the future -- Chapter 2 Section membership and participation in the American sociological review publication process -- Chapter 3 How information technology transforms the methods of sociological research: past and future -- Part II Field analysis: relationships and networks -- Chapter 4 In sync, but apart: temporal symmetry, social synchronicity, and digital connectedness -- Chapter 5 Romantic dissolution and Facebook life: a typology of coping strategies for breakups -- Chapter 6 Long ties as equalizers -- Chapter 7 Black-hat hackers' crisis information processing in the darknet: a case study of cyber underground market shutdowns -- Chapter 8 I click, therefore I am: predicting clicktivist-like actions on candidates' Facebook posts during the 2016 US primary election -- Afterword -- Index.
Sommario/riassunto	Sponsored by the Communication, Information Technologies, and Media Sociology section of the American Sociological Association (CITAMS), this volume celebrates the section's thirtieth anniversary. Lead editor Barry Wellman joins forces with former and current CITAMS chairs Wenhong Chen, Shelia Cotten, and Laura Robinson, as well as Casey Brienza, founder of the Media Sociology Preconference, to look back at the history of the section, review some of its most important themes, and set the agenda for future discussion. Alongside its sister volume, The "M" in CITAMS@30: Media Sociology, this valuable book shows the impact CITAMS has had, and continues to have, on academic and public discourse. Featuring leading scholars in the fields of sociology of communication, information technologies and media, it reveals how the section had transcended disciplinary boundaries, and demonstrates how it holds the skills to address some of the biggest challenges of our digital age. It is essential reading for all those interested in both the story of CITAMS to date, and the role it will play in the future.
