

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910815321803321
Titolo	Singing in the fire : stories of women in philosophy // edited by Linda Martin Alcoff
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Maryland : , : Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, Inc., , 2003 ©2003
ISBN	0-7425-1382-3 1-4616-6625-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (186 p.)
Disciplina	108/.2
Soggetti	Women philosophers
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Cover Page; Title Page; Copyright Page; Dedication; Contents; Acknowledgments; Introduction Linda Martin Alcoff; 1 A Life Sentence in Bohemia Sandra Lee Bartky; 2 My Open Agenda, or How Not to Make the Right Career Moves Teresa Brennan; 3 Finding My Voice: Reminiscence of an Outlaw Claudia Card; 4 Taking Oneself Seriously, But Not Too Virginia Held; 5 Freethinking? Alison M. Jaggar; 6 Etc. Stephanie R. Lewis; 7 What's a Brown Girl like You Doing in the Ivory Tower? Or, How I Became a Feminist Philosopher Uma Narayan 8 ""Don't Smile So Much "" : Philosophy and Women in the 1970s Martha C. Nussbaum 9 At the Feet of Mrs. Ramsay Andrea Nye; 10 Philosophy and Life: A Singular Case of Their Interconnection Ofelia Schutte; 11 Autobiography of a Whistle-Blower Kristin Shrader-Frechette; 12 Getting Here from There Karen J. Warren; About the Contributors
Sommario/riassunto	This is a unique, groundbreaking collection of autobiographical essays by leading women in philosophy. It provides a glimpse at the experiences of the generation that witnessed, and helped create, the remarkable advances now evident for women in the field.