

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910815843003321
Autore	Causton Julie
Titolo	The Speech-language pathologist's handbook for inclusive school practices // by Julie Causton, Ph.D., Syracuse University and Chelsea P. Tracy-Bronson, M.A., Syracuse University ; Patrick Schwarz, foreword
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Baltimore, Maryland : , : Paul H. Brookes Publishing Co., , 2014 ©2014
ISBN	1-59857-698-4 1-59857-704-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (185 p.)
Disciplina	616.85/506
Soggetti	Speech therapy Inclusive education
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; Book Title; Contents; About the Forms; About the Authors; Foreword; Preface; Acknowledgments; Chapter 1: The Speech-Language Pathologist; Chapter 2: Special Education; Chapter 3: Inclusive Education; Chapter 4: Collaborating with Others; Chapter 5: Rethinking Students: Presuming Competence; Chapter 6: Providing Social Supports: Standing Back; Chapter 7: Providing Academic Supports; Chapter 7: Appendix; Chapter 8: Providing Behavioral Supports; Chapter 9: Supporting You, Supporting Them: Self Care; Chapter 9: Appendix; References; Index
Sommario/riassunto	Every inclusive school team needs a great SLP who supports communication skills where they're needed most in the classroom, as students with disabilities learn and participate alongside their peers. This is the practical, friendly guide SLPs need to go beyond pull-out services and deliver successful communication and language supports as part of an inclusive school team. Packed with immediately useful strategies, relatable examples, and invaluable insights from experienced SLPs, this guidebook is key to helping students with disabilities improve their communicative functioning so they can

