

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910817332103321
Autore	Goodale Greg <1966->
Titolo	The rhetorical invention of man : a history of distinguishing humans from other animals // Greg Goodale
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Maryland : , : Lexington Books, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	1-4985-0930-4 1-4985-0931-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (193 p.)
Disciplina	128
Soggetti	Philosophical anthropology Human beings Speciesism Humanism
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Prologos; 1 Man Is an Invention; 2 Translating Man; 3 Before Man; 4 The Distinction of Man; 5 The Certainty of Man; 6 The Arrogance of Man; 7 The Trouble with Man; Epilogos; References; Index; About the Author
Sommario/riassunto	The Rhetorical Invention of Man examines how the category "Man" has dominated Western thinking since the sixteenth century. This category, a historical anomaly according to Michel Foucault and Jacques Derrida, has produced distortions in our ability to understand reality that do great harm to our health, morals, and environment.