

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910818667103321
Autore	Raco Mike
Titolo	Building sustainable communities : spatial policy and labour mobility in post-war Britain // Mike Raco [[electronic resource]]
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Bristol, UK : , : Policy, , 2007
ISBN	1-4473-0158-7 1-281-16000-8 9786611160005 1-84742-176-8
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (ix, 267 pages) : digital, PDF file(s)
Disciplina	331.12042
Soggetti	Sociology, Urban - Great Britain Labor market - Great Britain - Regional disparities Manpower policy - Great Britain Sustainable development - Great Britain Great Britain Social policy
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Title from publisher's bibliographic system (viewed on 14 Jan 2022).
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 243-261) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; BUILDING SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES - Spatial policy and labour mobility in post-war Britain; Contents; List of tables, figures and boxes; Acknowledgements; ONE - Changing times, changing places; Introduction; Aims of the book; Building balanced communities: exploring the rationalities of spatial policy; The possibilities, practices, and limitations of the historical research method; Structure of the book; Conclusions: spatial policy as an active social policy; Part One - Conceptualising spatial policy; TWO - Conceptualising sustainable communities: place-making and labour market-building Part Two - Post-war spatial policy, 1945-79 THREE - Reconstruction, regional policy, and labour market-building: inter-regional labour transfer policies in the post-war period; FOUR - Building balanced labour markets in the post-war New Towns; FIVE - Economic modernisation and post-war emigration and immigration; Part Three - Post-war spatial policy, 1979-2006; SIX - The reconstruction of regional policy and the remaking of the competitive region; SEVEN -

Sustainable community-building under New Labour

EIGHT - Managed migration, sustainable community-building, and international labour movements
NINE - Spatial policy, sustainable communities, and labour market-building: towards a new research agenda; References; Index

---

Sommario/riassunto

In 2003 the Labour Government published its ambitious Sustainable Communities Plan. It promised to bring about a 'step change' in the English planning system and a new emphasis on the construction of more balanced, cohesive, and competitive places. This book uses historical and contemporary materials to document the ways in which policy-makers, in different eras, have sought to use state powers and regulations to create better, more balanced, and sustainable communities and citizens. It charts the changes that have taken place in community-building policy frameworks, place imaginations, and core spatial policy initiatives in the UK since 1945. In so doing, it examines the tensions that have emerged within spatial policy over the types of places that should be created and the forms of mobility and fixity required to create them. It also shows that there are significant lessons that can be learnt from the experiences of the past. These can be used to inform contemporary policy debates over issues such as migration, uneven development, key worker housing, and sustainability. The book will be an important text for students and researchers in geography, urban studies, planning, and modern social history. It will also be of interest to practitioners working in central and local government, voluntary organisations, community groups, and those involved in the planning and design of sustainable communities.

---