

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910819656803321
Autore	Lincecum Gideon <1793-1874.>
Titolo	Pushmataha : a Choctaw leader and his people // Gideon Lincecum ; with an introduction by Greg O'Brien
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Tuscaloosa, : University of Alabama Press, c2004
ISBN	0-8173-8469-3
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (125 p.)
Collana	Fire ant books
Altri autori (Persone)	O'BrienGreg
Disciplina	976.004/97387
Soggetti	Choctaw Indians - Kings and rulers Choctaw Indians - History Choctaw Indians - Social life and customs Mounds - Mississippi Mississippi Antiquities
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- Choctaw traditions about their settlement in Mississippi and the origin of their mounds -- Life of Apushmataha.
Sommario/riassunto	Valuable, original, and difficult-to-find resources on Choctaw history and culture. This important book comprises two articles that appeared in the 1904 and 1906 volumes of Publications of the Mississippi Historical Society. In "Life of Apushmataha," Gideon Lincecum tells the story of Choctaw chief Pushmataha, who was born in Mississippi in 1764. A fearless warrior, his name literally means "one whose tomahawk is fatal in war or hunting." As a charismatic leader, his foresight in making an alliance with General Andrew Jackson brought the Choctaws into war with the