

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910821617403321
Autore	Jeffries Bayyinah S.
Titolo	A nation can rise no higher than its women : African American Muslim women in the movement for Black self determination, 1950-1975 // Bayyinah S. Jeffries
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Maryland : , : Lexington Books, , 2014 ©2014
ISBN	1-4985-3229-2 0-7391-7654-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (201 p.)
Disciplina	320.558
Soggetti	Black Muslims - Social conditions Muslim women - United States - Social conditions African American women - Social conditions
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Preface; Acknowledgments; Introduction; 1 Upon the Education of Its People Rests the Fate of a Nation; 2 African American Muslim Women in the Nation of Islam Movement; 3 "Raising Her Voice"; 4 African American Activism; 5 Crossing Borders; Selected Bibliography; Index; About the Author
Sommario/riassunto	A Nation Can Rise No Higher Than Its Women: African American Muslim Women in the Nation of Islam, 1950-1975 challenges traditional interpretations of African American women who joined the Original Nation of Islam during the Civil Right-Black Power era. Using a wealth of academic research and firsthand accounts, Jeffries thoroughly debunks the popular opinion that women were not influential in the Nation of Islam, revealing instead that they were heralded in the movement. Women provided a clear, and often sought after voice in the advancement of not only the Nation, but the rise of Black pride