

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910821639503321
Autore	Shimabukuro Moriyo
Titolo	The accentual history of the Japanese and Ryukyuan languages [[electronic resource]] : a reconstruction // Moriyo Shimabukuro
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Folkestone [England], : Global Oriental, 2007
ISBN	1-282-48609-8 9786612486098 90-04-21340-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (392 p.)
Collana	Languages of Asia series ; ; v. 2
Disciplina	418.0071052 495.6
Soggetti	Japanese language Ryukyuan language
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Preliminary Material -- 1. Introduction -- 2. Previous Scholarship: A Critical Review -- 3. Historical Linguistic Methods -- 4. Accent Change -- 5. Reconstruction Of Proto-Ryukyuan Accent -- 6. Reconstruction Of Proto-Mainland Japanese Accent -- 7. Reconstruction Of Proto-Japonic Accent -- 8. Conclusion -- References -- Appendix. Japonic Cognates And Reconstructed Forms.
Sommario/riassunto	This book looks into the accentual history of the Japanese and the Ryukyuan languages. Applying the comparative method, the author has reconstructed the accentual history of the Japonic languages. The reconstruction is based on modern dialects of Japanese and Ryukyuan, and also on historical materials. The investigation of 'natural accent changes' has allowed the author to formalize rules for accent change. Using these rules, the developments of the accent systems of descendant dialects or languages are explained. The development of typologically different accent systems is also explored.