

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910821818803321
Autore	Ondrejka Dennis
Titolo	Affective teaching in nursing : connecting to feelings, values, and inner awareness // Dennis Ondrejka
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, N.Y., : Springer Pub. Co., c2014
ISBN	0-8261-1793-7
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (236 p.)
Disciplina	610.7301
Soggetti	Nursing - Philosophy
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	What is affective pedagogy : what is the risk for faculty? -- Reviewing traditional teaching methods -- Planting the objectivist movement in nursing education -- Building an infrastructure for affective-literate teachers -- Adjusting philosophies to support affective teaching in nursing education -- Measuring affective teaching -- Using affective pedagogy in distance learning with Janice Holvoet -- Moving from presentation slides to affective teaching at conferences -- Conducting a current literature review on affective teaching : what does this mean for nursing? -- The emotional and social intelligence movement -- International social-emotional learning (SEL) and affective education movement -- Taking the red pill and breaking the illusions.
Sommario/riassunto	Although nursing education today offers copious amounts of information geared to test preparation, it does not adequately harness the emotional intelligence of individual students-a quality that can greatly enrich the nursing profession. This expert resource for understanding the importance of affective teaching-what it is and how to incorporate it into the classroom-provides a plentiful array of affective teaching pedagogy and references. Drawing from the emotional and social intelligence movement, the text offers both new and traditional insights into the importance of linking intellectual a