

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910822595903321
Autore	Warren James A.
Titolo	Gambling, the state and society in Thailand, c. 1800-1945 // James A. Warren
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Abingdon, Oxon : , : Routledge, , 2013
ISBN	1-135-90900-8 0-203-55210-5 1-299-46937-X 1-135-90893-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (263 p.)
Collana	Routledge studies in the modern history of Asia ; ; 82
Disciplina	363.4/209593
Soggetti	Gambling - Thailand - History
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Gambling and socio-economic change in nineteenth-century Siam -- Games, dens and players : gambling in nineteenth-century Thai society -- Gambling revenue and the creation of the modern Thai nation-state -- The Thai elite, anti-gambling and lawmaking -- The police and enforcement -- The judiciary, punishment and the prison -- The press and the Bangkok middle class -- Buddhism, the sangha and the silent majority -- The criminalization of vice : gambling policy in comparative perspective.
Sommario/riassunto	"Charts the development of gambling in Thailand and relates it to the development of Thai state and society, showing how gambling was a fundamental issue hugely affecting political developments. It considers the difference between law and how law is enforced, outlining how the Thai elite, though professing opposition to gambling, often both tolerated and profited from it, as did the police"--Provided by publisher.