

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910823243503321
Autore	Bodilly Susan J
Titolo	New American Schools' concept of break-the-mold designs : how designs evolved and why // Susan Bodilly
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Santa Monica, CA, : Rand, 2001
ISBN	1-59875-187-5 0-8330-4381-1
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (150 p.)
Disciplina	379.1/5
Soggetti	School improvement programs - United States - Evaluation Educational change - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"MR-1288-NAS."
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 133-139).
Nota di contenuto	Preface -- Figures -- Tables -- Summary -- Acknowledgments -- Acronyms -- 1. INTRODUCTION -- 2. CHANGES IN THE PORTFOLIO OF TEAMS AND NAS's STRATEGY -- 3. CHANGES TO THE THEORY OF EDUCATION INHERENT IN THE DESIGNS -- 4. DEVELOPMENT OF IMPLEMENTATION STRATEGIES AND SUPPORTS -- 5. CONCLUSIONS AND POLICY IMPLICATIONS -- REFERENCES.
Sommario/riassunto	Business leaders created New American Schools, a private non-profit corporation, in 1991 to develop "break-the-mould" designs for schools serving grades K-12. This report documents the significant changes that have taken place in the designs and the reasons for those changes.