

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910823877903321
Autore	Acks Alex
Titolo	Can states make their own laws? // Alex Acks
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, New York : , : Enslow Publishing, , 2020
ISBN	1-9785-0842-5
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (48 pages) : illustrations (chiefly color), maps, portraits
Collana	Ask the constitution
Disciplina	342.73042
Soggetti	Exclusive and concurrent legislative powers - United States Federal government - United States Constitutional law - United States Interstate relations - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	chapter one. The need for a constitution -- chapter two. Federalism and the tenth amendment -- chapter three. "States' rights" and the Civil War -- chapter four. From layer cake to marble cake -- chapter five. Federalism today.
Sommario/riassunto	This book describes America as a complex tapestry of laws, from the local ones passed by your city council to national laws made by Congress. Sometimes Congress passes a law to build a program, such as the Affordable Care Act, and then hands some or all of its administration over to the states. Was it always like this? What happens when a state and the national government disagree? Readers find out how these issues have evolved since before the Constitution was signed.