

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910824428203321
Autore	Anderson James H (James Horton), <1964->
Titolo	Anticorruption in transition 3 : : who is succeeding ... and why? // James H. Anderson, Cheryl W. Gray
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Washington, D.C. : , : World Bank, , c2006
ISBN	1-280-53133-9 9786610531332 0-8213-6693-9
Descrizione fisica	xix, 105 pages : illustrations ; ; 24 cm
Altri autori (Persone)	GrayCheryl Williamson <1954->
Disciplina	364.1323
Soggetti	Political corruption - Europe, Eastern Political corruption - Former Soviet republics Privatization - Corrupt practices - Europe, Eastern Privatization - Corrupt practices - Former Soviet republics
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 101-105).
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Abbreviations and Acronyms; Executive Summary; Figures; 1 Introduction; Boxes; 2 Patterns of Corruption, 2002-2005; 3 What Influences the Extent of Corruption?; 4 Policies and Corruption Outcomes; 5 Closing Thoughts; Methodological Annex; Tables; Bibliography
Sommario/riassunto	This is the third in a series of World Bank studies that examines patterns and trends in corruption in business-government interactions in the transition countries of Europe and Central Asia. The message of this series is positive: Corruption has fallen since 2000 in many transition countries in the region. Firms are paying bribes less frequently and in smaller amounts (as a share of revenues) than in the past, and they see corruption as less of a problem for business. Reforms have accelerated in the past decade. Many countries are cutting red tape, simplifying taxes, and strengthening audits