

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910826354803321
Autore	Scarritt Arthur
Titolo	Racial spoils from native soils : how neoliberalism steals Indigenous lands in highland Peru // Arthur Scarritt
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Maryland : , : Lexington Books, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	0-7391-9137-3 0-7391-9138-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (155 p.)
Disciplina	303.48
Soggetti	Indigenous peoples - Peru - Social conditions Neoliberalism - Latin America
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Chapter One: Introduction; Huaytabamba; In the Village; Neoliberalizing through Race; Peru: Authoritarianism and Racial Splintering; Institutionalized Racism; Indirect Rule and Native Racial Subordination; Andean Racism through Time; Book Overview; Book Cover; Notes; Chapter Two: Historical Arc; Conquest and Colonization, 1532-1820; The Toledo Reforms; Andean Insurrection; Independence, Pacific, and Civil Wars, 1820-1895; Nation Formation and the Third Race, 1895-1968; The Agrarian Reform, 1969-1980; Note; Chapter Three: Exploiting through the Guise of Helping Exploitative DevelopmentThe Developmentalist Indian Question; Exclusion through Developmentalist Inclusion; Institutional Racialization; Cultural Racialization; Institutionalized Cultural Capital; Making Racism Normal; Conclusion: The Racist Success of Failed Development; Notes; Chapter Four: Evangelical Ethnic Revitalization; Evangelical Social Change; The Evangelical Rise; The Evangelical Worldview; The Evangelical Revolution; Evangelism Takes Change; Evangelical Impact; Creative Resistance; Notes; Chapter Five: Racially Reinventing Privatization; The Neoliberal Indian Question Privatization's Strategic LieWhy Lie?; Mustering the Urbanites; Land Law Promoted Coercion; Comunidad Resistance; Notes; Chapter Six: The Privatization Battle; Alienating Villagers from the City; Cutting Urban

Socioeconomic Support; Undermining Villagers from Within; Severing Political Support; The Fall of the Church; Racism Conquers Democracy; Coup d'Etat, Coup de Grace; Neoliberalism as a Ritual of Subordination; Notes; Chapter Seven: The Localities and Globalities of Racism; The Political Economy of Global Racism; Creative Resistance; Note; Bibliography; Index; About the Author

Sommario/riassunto

This book proposes a racialization theory that explains the continued impoverishment and dependency of indigenous peoples. Through the case study of an Andean village, the book shows how the normal workings of society push for indigenous subordination and eventually the loss of their lands under neoliberalism.
