

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910827438603321
Autore	Cornwell David J
Titolo	Doing justice better : the politics of restorative justice // David J. Cornwell
Pubbl/distr/stampa	WInchester, UK, : Waterside Press Portland, Or., : North American distributor, ISBS, c2007
ISBN	1-281-12443-5 9786611124434 1-906534-11-X
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	210 p.
Disciplina	364.6/8
Soggetti	Criminal justice, Administration of Restorative justice Criminals - Rehabilitation Reparation (Criminal justice)
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [195]-203) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover -- Acknowledgements -- Contents -- Dedication -- Preface -- Foreword -- Introduction -- 1. The Politics of Restorative Justice, Critique, Analysis and the Basis of the Discussion -- 2. Making Justice Restorative: the Need for a New Penology -- 3. Victims' Voices: The Place of Victims in a Restorative Justice Setting -- 4. Penal Politics, Reparation and Restoration: Towards a Pragmatic Position -- 5. Making Prisons Reparative and Restorative: Designing for Outcomes in Custodial Corrections -- 6. Community Justice: The Potential for Expanding Non-custodial Corrections -- 7. Doing Justice Better: Making Restorative Justice Work -- POSTSCRIPT -- Bibliography -- Index -- Back cover.
Sommario/riassunto	An uncompromising appraisal of the unique penal crisis affecting Britain and other Western-style democracies. Escalating resort to prisons, longer sentences, overcrowded and ineffective regimes, high rates of re-offending and eclectic penal policy all combine to fuel this crisis, whilst failing to reduce offending. In this new book, David J Cornwell, author of the acclaimed Criminal Punishment and Restorative

Justice (ISBN 9781904380207), argues that the symptoms of this penal malaise are grounded in media sensationalism of crime and the need of politicians and their advisers to retain electoral credibility. Change is long overdue, but it requires a fresh, contemporary penology based on Restorative Justice. The book challenges the status quo, asks 'different questions' and places victims of crime at the centre of the criminal justice process.
