

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910828273903321
Autore	Suurmond G (Guido)
Titolo	Enforcing fire safety in the catering industry [[electronic resource]] : an economic analysis // G. Suurmond
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Leiden, : Leiden University Press, c2008
ISBN	1-282-40187-4 9786612401879 90-485-0812-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (397 p.)
Disciplina	330 340-349 363.377
Soggetti	Fire prevention Caterers and catering
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Content; 1. Introduction; Part 1: Theory; 2. The social problem and the optimal solution: Why enforcement is needed; 3. Introduction to public law enforcement: detection and sanctions; 4. Continuing compliance and enduring enforcement - time constraints; 5. Partial compliance and targeting enforcement - resource constraints; 6. Flexible compliance and cooperative enforcement - information constraints; 7. Voluntary compliance and persuading enforcement - informal constraints; 8. Economic explanations of compliance strategies; 9. Discretion, credibility and objectives of the enforcement authority 10. The optimal structure of law enforcement Part 2: Empirical Analysis; 11. Fire safety regulation in horeca establishments and policy developments; 12. Analyzing current municipal enforcement policies: Which strategy is effective?; 13. Cost-benefit analysis of enforcement following the Volendam disaster; 14. Settlement of liability claims following the Volendam disaster; 15. Efficient enforcement in a representative municipality; 16. Conclusion; Appendix 1: Interviews and interviewees; Samenvatting; References; Index; Curriculum vitae
Sommario/riassunto	On New Year's Eve 2001, fourteen youngsters were killed and more than two hundred got injured by a fire in a bar in the municipality of Volendam in the Netherlands. After this tragic event, the Dutch government intensified the administrative law enforcement of the fire safety regulation, especially in the catering industry. From an economic and social perspective important questions can be raised on this response to the 'Volendam disaster'. Are the costs and benefits of enforcement properly balanced? What effects on compliance can be expected from administrative law enforcement? Is private enfor
