| Sommario/riassunto | As India marks a decade of economic reforms, it stands poised to enter a new era. With the reform process finally starting to pay off, the economy has been developing along the path of sustainable growth. If the current reforms are sustained, India will be the third largest economy in the world by 2050. "India Rising" is a timely publication on India's political, economic and social underpinnings. It provides a sharp assessment of India's current challenges and a comprehensive outlook on the future. With contributions from senior leaders in the business and government sectors, media and civi |
