Disciplina	005.82
Soggetti	Cryptography Data encryption (Computer science)
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes index.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	A New Efficient Threshold Ring Signature Scheme Based on Coding Theory -- Square-Vinegar Signature Scheme -- Attacking and Defending the McEliece Cryptosystem -- McEliece Cryptosystem Implementation: Theory and Practice -- Merkle Tree Traversal Revisited -- Explicit Hard Instances of the Shortest Vector Problem -- Practical-Sized Instances of Multivariate PKCs: Rainbow, TTS, and ?IC-Derivatives -- Digital Signatures Out of Second-Preimage Resistant Hash Functions -- Cryptanalysis of Rational Multivariate Public Key Cryptosystems -- Syndrome Based Collision Resistant Hashing -- Nonlinear Piece In Hand Perturbation Vector Method for Enhancing Security of Multivariate Public Key Cryptosystems -- On the Power of Quantum Encryption Keys -- Secure PRNGs from Specialized Polynomial Maps over Any -- MXL2: Solving Polynomial Equations over GF(2) Using an Improved Mutant Strategy -- Side Channels in the McEliece PKC.
Sommario/riassunto	This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Second International Workshop on Post-Quantum Cryptography, PQCrypto 2008, held in Cincinnati, OH, USA, in October 2008. The 15 revised full papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from numerous submissions. Quantum computers are predicted to break existing public key cryptosystems within the next decade. Post-quantum cryptography is a new fast developing area, where public key schemes are studied that could resist these emerging attacks. The papers present four families of public key cryptosystems that have the potential to resist quantum computers: the code-based public key cryptosystems, the hash-based public key cryptosystems, the lattice-based public key cryptosystems and the multivariate public key cryptosystems.

Sommario/riassunto	Founded in 1968, the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF) is the Latino equivalent to the NAACP: a source of legal defense for the Latina/o community in cases centered on education, state immigration laws, redistricting, employment discrimination, and immigrant rights. Unlike the NAACP, however, MALDEF was founded by Mexican American activists in conjunction with the larger philanthropic structure of the Ford Foundation?a relationship that has opened it up to controversy and criticism. In the first book to examine this little-known but highly influential organization, Benjamin M?rquez explores MALDEF?s history and shows how it has thrived and served as a voice for the Latina/o community throughout its six decades of operation. But he also looks closely at large-scale investments of the Ford Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, and others, considering how their ties to MALDEF have influenced Mexican American and Latinx politics. Its story crafted from copious research into MALDEF and its benefactors, this book brings to light the influence of outside funding on the articulation of minority identities and the problems that come with creating change through institutional means.
